EXCITEMENT UNABATED.

Proof that that Physician's Terrible Confession is True.

Cleveland (O.) Herald.

Yesterday and the day before we copied into our columns from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle a remarkable statement made by J. B. Henion, M. D., a gentleman who is well known in that city. In that article Dr. Henion recounted the wonderful experience which befell him, and the next day we published from the same paper [illegible] account of the excitement in Rochester [illegible] caused by Dr. Henion's statement. It is doubtful if any two articles were ever published which caused greater commotion among professionals and laymen.

Since the publication of these two articles we have been besieged with letters of inquiry, with a request for information from Dr. Henion and also from H. H. Warner & Co., asking if [illegible] additional proof [illegible] Lawyer and here it is:

GENTLEMEN:—I owe my life and present health wholly to the power of Warner's Safe Cure, which snatched me from the very brink of the grave. It is not surprising that people should question the statement I made (which is true in every respect), for my recovery was as great a marvel to my old-time physicians and friends.

J. B. HENION, M. D.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. [illegible]

SIRS:—The best proof we can give you that the statements made by Dr. Henion are entirely true, and would not have been published unless strictly so, is the following testimonial from the best citizens of Rochester, and a card published by the City of Rochester. H. H. WARNER & CO.

To Whom it May Concern:

We are personally or by reputation acquainted with Dr. Henion, and we believe he would publish no statement not literally true. We are also personally or by reputation well acquainted with H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure (of which Dr. Henion says he was cured), whose commercial and personal standing in this community is of the highest order, and we believe that they would not publish any statement which was not literally and strictly true in every particular.

C. R. PARSONS, Mayor of Rochester.
WM. PURCELL, (Editor Union and Advertiser.)
W. D. SHUART, (Ex-Surrogate Monroe County.)
EDWARD A. FROST, (Ex-Clerk Monroe County.)
E. B. FENNER, (Ex-District Attorney Monroe County.)
J. M. DAVY, (Ex-Member Congress, Rochester.)
JOHN S. MORGAN, (County Judge Monroe Co.)
HIRAM SIBLEY, (Capitalist and Seedsman.)
HENRY VAN VOORHIS, (Ex-Member Congress.)

Rectory of the Living Church, [illegible]

There was published in the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle of the 31st of December, a statement made by J. B. Henion, M. D., narrating how he had been cured of Bright's disease of the kidneys, almost in its last stages, by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. I was referred to in that statement as having recommended and urged Dr. Henion to try the remedy, which he did and was cured. The statement of Dr. Henion is true so far as it concerns myself, and I believe it to be true in all other respects. He was a parishioner of mine and I visited him in his sickness. I urged him to take the medicine and I would do the same again to any one who was troubled with a disease of the kidneys and liver.

ISRAEL FOOTE, (D. D.)

It seems impossible to doubt further in the face of such conclusive proof.

Return of the Defaulting Supreme Court Clerk.

FIVE MEN KILLED AND WOUNDED

The U. S. Attorney at Salt Lake Assaulted—Civil Law Restored at Seattle—The Trouble in the Cabinet.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. [illegible].—J. W. McCarthy, the defaulting clerk of the supreme court of this city, who has been in Honolulu since January 4, returned to-day on the Mariposa. It is reported that McCarthy's friends have fully settled with the state [illegible] his only [illegible]

As soon as McCarthy landed he was taken to the office of the chief of police, and released on $8000 bail. McCarthy stated that he left the city on account of ill health; that he intended to go to Los Angeles or another warm locality for the benefit of his health, but suddenly changed his mind and took passage on the St. Paul for Honolulu. He was induced [illegible] by [illegible] He [illegible] W. McCarthy, San Francisco [illegible] St. Paul [illegible] He [illegible] knowledge of [illegible] taking a trip [illegible] health. He says that [illegible] within sixty days [illegible] for state officers and considers himself [illegible] the clerk of the supreme court, to which he was elected for a term of four years, and that he will immediately resume the [illegible]. He says that he owes nothing [illegible] official [illegible] and that [illegible] have their [illegible] McCarthy's departure Governor Stoneman appointed F. B. Spencer to succeed him. THE U. S. ATTORNEY ASSAULTED.

SALT LAKE, Feb. [illegible]—About [illegible] o'clock this evening [illegible] U. S. Attorney Dickson was leaving the dining room at the Continental hotel, where he [illegible] with his family, three men asked to see him at the outer door. He went when one struck him in the face, [illegible] with a stone. The other two [illegible] Judge Powers, the [illegible] of the [illegible] and Marshal [illegible] in the hotel followed and [illegible] to the door just after Dickson had been struck. Frank J. Cannon, son of George Q. Cannon, and Angus Cannon were two of the assailants. The other is not known at this writing. The unknown man ran. Judge Powers [illegible] put the other two under arrest, as they apparently were determined to [illegible] Policeman Smith took Frank J. Cannon away, contrary to directions of Judge Powers, but U. S. Marshal Ireland presently arrived and took charge of Angus Cannon, who when arrested was found to have a self-cocking pistol with all the chambers loaded. A great crowd collected, among them women, one of whom was heard to say, "Served Dickson right. I wish they had killed him, for he has almost killed the father." Dickson was not seriously hurt. There is considerable excitement and further trouble is not improbable.

When Frank J. Cannon was arrested [illegible] Paddock heard him say: "That [illegible] I will kill him yet."

THE WRECK OF THE [illegible]

PORT TOWNSEND, Feb. [illegible].—The steamer Tacoma was libeled to-day for running the ship [illegible] ashore on [illegible] Point, straits of [illegible] [illegible] claim [illegible] as they say the tug was in fault. Appraisers have been appointed to decide on the worth of the steamer, and when they report bonds will be given for her release. The owners of the tug have given no excuse for the accident. The mate of the tug, who had charge of the watch at the time of the accident, says that the weather was clear on the American side of the straits, but on the British side was slightly hazy. The American shore appearing nearer than it really was, he [illegible] calculated the distance, and the vessel struck. Had the vessel been a ship's length further out she would have gone clear. Her anchors, chains, and the rest of the [illegible] were brought here to-day by the Tacoma. The captain of the steamer is not blamed, as the mate had been with him for many years and was a competent man. The captain has requested the owners to relieve him from command, but his resignation has not been accepted. The vessel has not gone to pieces, but will with the first heavy weather.

CIVIL LAW RESTORED AT SEATTLE.

SEATTLE, Feb. 22.—By a proclamation that Gov. Squire issued at a late hour this evening civil law was restored in Seattle. This ends martial law after a reign of just two weeks.

Three of the agitators bound over on Saturday were released on bail to-day.

OUR MINISTER TO JAPAN.

He Deadheads his Way to Yokohama and Repudiates his Wine Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. [illegible].—Ex-Governor Hubbard, of Texas, who was appointed to be minister to Japan by President Cleveland in the early days of his administration, [illegible] The Sunday Capital says: [illegible] of [illegible] who [illegible] serve his country as minister at the court of the mikado [illegible] [illegible] for him [illegible] every [illegible] and [illegible] for his [illegible] from San Francisco to Yokohama on the Pacific Mail steamer, and [illegible] courtesy [illegible] than [illegible] was given him. The latter defended the steward, and said that the bill must be paid, but it was not, and never has been.

The governor did not order any more wine, and the only refreshments he had during the rest of the voyage were paid for by other passengers.

Upon the return of the steamer to San Francisco the steward presented the American minister's wine tickets to the superintendent of the company, Mr. Mosley, who forwarded them to the board of directors at New York, with the recommendation that the steward be relieved from responsibility, which I understand was done.

A DENIAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. [illegible].—Superintendent Mosely, of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, said to-day that the statement of a Washington journal about ex-Governor Hubbard, United States minister to Japan, was not founded on fact. The free passage to Yokohama granted Minister Hubbard and his family was not a special courtesy, granted at the request of the ex-governor of Texas. One of the regulations of the company provides for free transportation of families of newly appointed ministers to China and Japan, and it was under this regulation that free passage was given Minister Hubbard when he left last year for Yokohama. The report of the charge which he alleged to have been run up by the minister during the voyage, and which he is said to have refused to pay, was Mr. Mosely said wholly false so far as his knowledge extended. He certainly never forwarded any such bill to the board of directors at New York, requesting them to relieve the steward of the responsibility of any wine said to have been drunk by the American minister.

A number of letters were received [illegible] [illegible] James G. Blaine [illegible] expressing regrets at his inability to attend, in which he said: "It will give pleasure to republicans throughout the country to observe an organized determination on the part of their Michigan brethren to re-establish their old strength [illegible] [illegible] state." Senators Sherman, Hawley, Hoar, Hale, Frye, Sabin, Edmunds and Allison, and Congressmen Phelps, Kelley and others sent letters of regret.

AT SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. [illegible].—Washington's birthday was celebrated in the usual manner here to-day. The events of the day were a parade of the National Guard and a review by the governor of [illegible] [illegible] at the park [illegible] and athletic games in Oakland. Business [illegible] the city was generally suspended.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

LONDON, Feb. [illegible].—U. S. Minister Phelps gave a brilliant reception to-day in honor of Washington's birthday. Among the guests were Viscount and Lady Wolseley, Earl and Countess Spencer, a number of resident and visiting Americans and other notable persons.

RAILROAD NOTES.

ANOTHER SWEEPING REDUCTION.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2[illegible].—The Santa Fe road to-day [illegible] to all its agents to give orders for a rate of $20 on $40 first class limited and [illegible] second class immigrant rates. The same were quietly distributed this afternoon to the Burlington and the Denver & Rio Grande, and [illegible] of this immediately issued orders making the first-class open rate from the Missouri river to San Francisco $30 and [illegible] for second class. It is understood that the Union Pacific [illegible] who have been notified of this last reduction [illegible] overland rates will meet it promptly.

CUT IN RATES TO OREGON.

DENVER, Feb. [illegible].—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Denver & Rio Grande roads to-day reduced passenger rates to Oregon and Washington territory points to meet the cut announced by the Union and Northern Pacific people on Saturday. They altered [illegible] the Ogden and Salt Lake rate to $[illegible], making it the same as the San Francisco rate. With this exception every [illegible] the same as it [illegible]

AT SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. [illegible].—It is stated to-day that the Pacific Mail company is arranging to take [illegible] freight to New York at $[illegible] per ton. EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

A CHINESE CONSUL INTERVIEWED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2[illegible].—The Mail and Express to-night says the following interview with Chang Hou, Chinese consul in this city: [illegible] a dispatch saying that the Chinese imperial government contemplates the retaliatory measures on account of treatment accorded [illegible] subjects in this country.

"I cannot say that I am advised that an imperial proclamation has been [illegible] compelling [illegible] [illegible] country to return home, but I may say [illegible] Chinese [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to leave. Whether the government is back of it is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Americans from China. The good name of this country [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] damages [illegible] What I don't understand is why the [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] should [illegible] amounting to $[illegible],000,000 [illegible] destroyed.

ARRIVAL OF CAPT. CLARK AND HIS CREW.

NEW YORK, Feb. [illegible].—Capt. [illegible] Clark, his wife and [illegible] the ship Frank N. Thayer, which was burned at sea on January [illegible] [illegible] Helena, reached this city to-day from Liverpool. Capt. Clark is a typical American sailor, very tall, with coal black beard, hair and eyes. Were it not that he occasionally placed his hand on a large plaster covered [illegible] upon his right cheek no one would suspect that he still suffered from the effects of his encounter with two crazy Manila sailors who before [illegible] ship endeavored to [illegible] every white man on board. When a reporter [illegible] him his eyes brightened and after a long [illegible] he said:

"I am too [illegible] to tell you all about my experiences. [illegible] I am still suffering [illegible] [illegible] At [illegible] my arrival in England I went to some of the [illegible] [illegible] my wounds. [illegible] My wife here (pointing to a [illegible] pale but pretty woman) [illegible] She had [illegible] wounds [illegible] upset by the mutiny and its horrible effects that I fear she will never recover."

Were the Manila sailors all treated before [illegible] attack [illegible] was asked.

"They were not, beyond the fact that they [illegible] received from the chief officer [illegible]

WORK RESUMED IN THE COKE REGION.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., Feb. [illegible].—There was a general resumption of work in the coke regions to-day. It was feared the Hungarians would cause trouble, but they offered no obstacle in the path of the workmen. At the Valley mine the men went in but came out again in a body on account of local grievances. The Hungarians are looking into the offices for checks to-day, and many of them have been refused work. They are angry because any compromise was made. It is thought an effort will be made to freeze them out and compel them to leave the coke regions.

A Connellsville dispatch says Hungarians paraded through the northern part of the regions all night, threatening violence to all who returned to work. The police are on guard and no serious trouble is apprehended. At the Morrell and Wheeler mines the men struck again because the company refused to reduce the size of the wagons.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 2[illegible].—At a largely attended delegate convention of coke workers at Scottdale to-day it was decided to accept the advance offered by the operators and return to work at once. The minority report the Hungarians decided that they would stand out still. Eleven prisoners were released from jail.

THURMAN MAY SUCCEED BAYARD.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The Tribune's Columbus special says: There is a pretty well grounded suspicion here that there was something behind the telephone cases that called ex-Senator Thurman to Washington. Here at the home of Mr. Thurman it is believed that his Washington visit has more significance than the mere telephone matter. An old friend of Mr. Thurman states that owing to his recent bereavements, Mr. Bayard will soon retire, that Senator Thurman will take charge of the interests of the government in the telephone cases and afterwards succeed the Delaware statesman. The administration is now in a dilemma. There is demand for a change in the cabinet, and the feeling is much the same as that which prevailed at the time that Secretary of War Belknap compromised the administration of Gen. Grant. It will be remembered that when President Grant looked about for a man of character and ability and one in which the people had confidence he selected Hon. Alphonso Taft as secretary of war, and the entire country applauded, and now Mr. Cleveland is very likely to do the same thing by inviting ex-Senator Thurman to come to the support of the administration.

THE OHIO ELECTION MUDDLE.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 2[illegible].—Judge Wylie of the common pleas court this morning decided the case of Daniel J. Dalton, clerk of the court of Hamilton county, on application for a writ of habeas corpus. He was arrested at the order of the house of representatives for contempt in refusing to produce before the house or the house committee the returns from precinct A, Fourth ward, Cincinnati, for the purpose of being photographed, and also refusing to bring the record [illegible] of Hamilton county without an order of court. The application was dismissed and Dalton was remanded to the custody of the sergeant at arms. Dalton is not in town and the attorney general states that unless he arrives by the first train he forfeits his recognizance, which is in the sum of $5000. Dalton has the alternative under the house resolution of either producing the returns as requested or staying [illegible] the specified time [illegible]

DISASTROUS POWDER EXPLOSION.

[illegible], Feb. [illegible].—A special to the [illegible] from Winchester, Ky., says: At noon to-day a powder explosion occurred in the grocery store of Mary Wills. A clerk was in the act of weighing the powder in a tin can when a man standing near the counter struck a match to light his pipe. This ignited the powder, which exploded with terrible violence. The house was badly wrecked and eight persons were severely wounded. Two of them, James Hopper and Will Munday, are in a dying condition and several others will probably recover. The man who struck the match escaped unhurt. Mary Wills and two others were unhurt. The fire [illegible] took fire, but the flames were soon extinguished. The injured are: Ben White, Thomas Martin, James Newkirk, [illegible] Hopper, W. [illegible] John Kirby, [illegible] Carrick and Lord Smith.

NATIONAL CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY.

NEW YORK, Feb. [illegible].—The movement for the erection of a national Catholic university in this country is making [illegible] headway, and large contributions are continuing to pour in. The original $300,000 given by Miss Caldwell as a foundation for the fund has already swollen to nearly twice that amount, and by the next meeting of the trustees, which takes place in Baltimore during the last week in April or the first week in May, it is expected that the $[illegible],000 deemed necessary to begin building will be more than subscribed. All the [illegible] [illegible] each other for possession of the site of the future university, but that question will, after due deliberation by the trustees, be settled once for all by the purchase of sixty-five acres of land in Washington.

THE SEIZURE OF THE MEXICO.

NEW YORK, Feb. [illegible].—In speaking of the reported capture of the steamship City of Mexico yesterday, Consul-General [illegible] of Honduras said: "I have not received further news in regard to it, but I do not doubt the truth of the report. I think, however, that the Galena is not with the City of Mexico, but that the prize crew is [illegible] [illegible] Key West. She is probably short of coal and is coming on slowly. I have evidence that will convict every one connected with the fitting out of the expedition. It [illegible] suggested to me that an ex-senator of the United States is furnishing money for the filibusters. I know that Soto, when president of Honduras, gave this man valuable concessions down there."

DEATH OF AN EX-MERCHANT PRINCE.

DENVER, Feb. [illegible].—Col. John Richards, senior member of the old drygoods house of Richards, Winslow & Shaw, Chicago, which at one time transacted a business of one million a year, but was bankrupted by the Chicago fire, died suddenly at Alamosa, Colorado, this morning. At the time of his death he was traveling for a Kansas City drygoods house.

THE WILMINGTON FIRE.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Feb. 2[illegible].—The loss by yesterday's fire is now estimated at $500,000, and insurance at $300,000.

RAILROAD NOTES FROM MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Feb. [illegible].—Superintendent Stephenson of the Grand Trunk railway recently made application to the treasury department at Washington to have the customs regulations which apply to passengers and baggage now in force in New England extended to the middle, south and southwestern states. The application has just been granted, and on and after the 1st of March next all passengers destined for any point in the United States over the Grand Trunk railway can have their baggage examined by United States customs officers located at Montreal, Prescott, Toronto, London and Hartford, after which the baggage will go through without further examination at the United States frontier.

The suit of McRae against the Canadian Pacific railway for $167,000 was commenced to-day. McRee was one of the contractors on trestle work north of Lake Superior, and claims that by his contract he was entitled to be paid not only for permanent trestle but also for all woodwork upon which the trestles were built and which has since been removed. A large number of prominent engineers from the United States and Canada will be examined. Upwards of 2000 witnesses have been summoned. If McRea is successful in his suit three other contractors will take similar action, aggregating over $300,000.

TIME FOR ACTION.

PORTLAND, Feb. [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

We are pleased that you refer to our advertisement in your commercial column, as the time has come for Portland to assert her claims as a distributing point, and not allow her trade to dwindle into insignificance.

Already minor points are warning Portland to [illegible] itself, but little attention is paid to it.

A decade once it was hard to regard [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible]

On the completion of the Northern Pacific railway a system of rebates of freights was granted [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the merchants [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the merchants there finding new avenues with lessened connections to [illegible]

Since then this section has been somewhat [illegible], but not until a totally different class of [illegible] were introduced. At present [illegible] [illegible] changed, we will [illegible] Corvallis, Salem, Albany and many other towns.

A walk through the north end of Portland [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

We have waited and watched for improvement, [illegible] the old [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] patient [illegible] was ample [illegible]

[illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The O. R. & N. Co. may say [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] they did for the [illegible] the demand [illegible] temporary [illegible] [illegible] limited country to supply.

If the O. R. & N. Co. prefer to trade on the necessities of the people, the time will undoubtedly come when the policy will be regretted, and we having interests at stake beg to record our protest.

Some may say this is all nonsense, as immigrants flock steadily in.

The hard experiences of the past two years have taught increased cautiousness, and interior merchants will not forsake an old base of supply for a new without thorough investigation. But now the time has come for action, not talk, on the part of Portland jobbers. Yours faithfully,

WATSON, WRIGHT & CO.

ASHLAND NOTES.

ASHLAND, Feb. [illegible]

Almond trees are in bloom.

Buds on peach trees almost open.

A. Bish has purchased the Daley place and will make it his home.

Ashland is full of strangers, some seeking homes and others investments for their money.

W. H. Atkinson has cleared ten acres of fruit land and is now clearing ten acres more.

The merchants here have all replenished their stocks since the freight trains began running again.

The Rev. J. A. Milligan, assisted by Rev. A. R. Bickenbach of Jacksonville, is holding a series of meetings in the Presbyterian church.

A great many buildings are going up here now. Mrs. Houck has started one on Oak street and Mr. Dempsey one in the Iowa settlement. Mr. Logan is greatly improving his art gallery.

The Ashland woolen mills will resume operations March 1, after a suspension of about two months. All repairs will then be completed. They have put in a splendid system of water works in case of fire.

By the 1st of April there will be upwards of 5000 peach trees in a radius of one mile of the [illegible] postoffice, and by January 188[illegible] there will be [illegible] acres of fruit trees in South Ashland and vicinity, all young trees, none over two years being planted now.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

Lord Randolph Churchill Well Received at Belfast.

HE ADDRESSES THE LOYALISTS.

The Troubles of Sir Charles Dilke—Debate on Bismarck's Polish Bill—Greece Spoiling for a Fight—Foreign Notes.

LONDON, Feb. 2[illegible].—Lord Randolph Churchill arrived at Larne this morning on his way to Belfast. He was enthusiastically received by a large crowd on his journey from London. He made a short stop at Stranraer, Scotland. There was a gathering of people at the station, and replying to their greetings he made a speech in which he said he imagined Scotchmen would hesitate to support any proposals for dismemberment of the empire. This remark was received with cheers.

In an address at Larne he asserted that the granting of home rule to Ireland would result in dissolution of the connection between Great Britain and Ireland. He declared that the placing of loyalists of the north of Ireland under the authority of a Dublin government would be a monstrosity of civilization. Loyalists, he said, must organize and fit themselves for the struggle for the maintenance of the union, which was only beginning now, but which he predicted would assume grave proportions.

CHURCHILL AT BELFAST.

BELFAST, Feb. 2[illegible].—Large bodies of Orangemen wearing regalia, displaying banners and headed by bands of music, met Lord Randolph Churchill at the depot here. He was escorted by a huge procession to Ulster hall, where addresses were presented him. Replying, he said he wished that the contents of the dissolution of the union were only [illegible] They would then perceive that [illegible] a [illegible] built to dissolution. The town is excited. Extensive police precautions have been taken to prevent rioting.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION.

The enthusiasm witnessed in Belfast to-day has not been equaled here in many years. In the numerous processions which paraded the streets were many women who all displayed the Orange colors. So dense was the crowd that filled the principal thoroughfares that traffic was deterred for several hours.

No sooner had Lord Randolph seated himself in the carriage that was waiting him than the crowd made a rush for the carriage, unharnessed the horses and proceeded to drag the vehicle from the station to the hotel. The enthusiasm displayed along the line of march was prodigious.

This evening Lord Randolph addressed a meeting when the enthusiasm displayed upon his arrival was repeated. Lord Randolph said it lay with Ulster to say whether Ireland should remain a part of the empire. He denied that the Parnellites were the true representatives of the will of the Irish people. As for Parnell himself, his only title to be continued as leader in the party lay in action of which no one could be justly proud: by playing upon the terrors of the peasantry and by means of brutal outrages upon human beings he had secured five sixths of the Irish members of [illegible]. Lord Randolph appealed to all regardless of creed to declare in favor of freer and closer union. If the appeal failed, he said he would not mind leaving the issue to the people of Ulster. He believed the storm would blow over, however, and that the union would emerge stronger than it had ever been. Lord Churchill expressed a hope that the struggle would be kept within constitutional limits, but added that they must be prepared for the worst.

The meeting adopted a resolution to oppose nationalism and to call upon the people of England and Scotland for help.

WALSH TO GLADSTONE.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Archbishop Walsh of Dublin has written to Gladstone that the Irish bishops conducted the recent elections, in answer to Gladstone's appeal to the Irish people to "speak out." He says the bishops believe that home rule would not affect the union or supremacy of the crown, and urges a suspension of eviction till the land question has been settled.

EVICTIONS TO CEASE.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—It is said that Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, has so instructed the police and military authorities as to render it virtually impossible to effect evictions.

ENGLAND.

THE CASE OF DILKE.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—It is understood that the queen's proctor will intervene in the case of Sir Charles Dilke. The latter has intimated that he desires to submit all the information in his possession to disprove the allegation that the divorce of Crawford's resulted from collusion.

An intimate friend of Sir Charles Dilke, writing to the papers, charges Mr. Chamberlain with some responsibility for Sir Charles's action in not going into the witness box during the progress of the Crawford case. The writer asserts that it was Mr. Chamberlain's vehement insistance against such course that restrained Sir Charles from appearing as a witness. He also alleges that some indiscretion which Sir Charles had been guilty happened in early life, and consisted of an intrigue with a married woman of light character. Sir Charles, his friend says, is a most sensitive man, and the burden of the accusation nearly cost him his reason.

IN PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 2[illegible].—In the house of commons to-day Childers, home secretary, announced that the riot committee advised a thorough and immediate overhauling and reorganization of the police department of London.

Capt. O'Shea met with a chilling reception in the house of commons. Mr. Parnell flatly refused to introduce Col. Nolan and Mr. Blake reluctantly undertook the task. Mr. Biggar openly avowed his disgust and contempt on the occasion.

THE CHIEF OF POLICE RESIGNS.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Col. Sir Edmund Henderson, head of the Metropolitan police force, is severely censured for the inefficiency of the police during the recent riots in London and has resigned. This action is supposed to be due to a conviction on his part that the committee appointed by Childers, home secretary, to investigate the cause of the riots would blame him for the course of the police.

THE JOCKEY CLUB.

LONDON, Feb. 2[illegible].—The Jockey club, which has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of betting, has [illegible] a rule that Tattersall's committee will settle betting disputes, and will report defaulters and [illegible] [illegible] practices to the club. This [illegible] constitutes the club a supreme court to make and administer laws on betting and [illegible] turf dealing on a business basis.

UNDER GERMAN PROTECTORATE.

LONDON, Feb. [illegible].—Count [illegible] German [illegible] has notified Lord Rosebery of the [illegible] of a German protectorate over the Marshall, Providence and Brown islands.

SOCIALIST REQUEST DENIED.

LONDON, Feb. [illegible].—The court has refused to grant a summons for the editor and publisher of [illegible] whom the socialist leaders desired to have committed for contempt of court.

THE EASTERN TROUBLE.

GREECE SPOILING FOR A FIGHT.

LONDON, Feb. 2[illegible].—The Greek ministers of war and marine threaten to resign unless war against Turkey is declared. The people of Greece, who are anxious for hostilities, are much excited. Torpedoes have been surreptitiously removed from the harbor of Salonica. The Turkish authorities boarded the Greek steamship Omonia and arrested the captain on suspicion of having been concerned in the removal. They then searched the vessel, but failed to find any of the torpedoes. The captain was thereupon released.

NAVAL OPERATIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The international fleet will leave Suda bay for Salamis immediately upon the arrival of the Duke of Edinburgh, who is to command the fleet. Two English cruisers will watch the coast of Crete in order to prevent the landing of Greek agitators bent on inciting insurrection.

GERMANY.

DEBATE ON THE POLISH BILL.

BERLIN, Feb. 2[illegible].—In the lower house of the diet to-day in a debate on the second reading of the Polish bill Herr Wirzbinski passionately denounced the projected German colonization of Poland. He declared that Poland would not perish, although a life or death struggle was imposed upon her. Minister Lucius said that the bill was an act of necessity and self-defense. The Poles, he said, were unwilling to become Prussian subjects, and dreamed of the restoration of Poland, although they owe their prosperity to Prussia. The government was fully aware of the difficulty of the task it had undertaken, but trusted to the support of the diet and to the patriotism of the country. Seventy-nine members gave notice that they would speak in behalf of the measure, and nineteen announced that they would speak against it.

THE OREGON CITY OUTRAGE

The deportation of a party of Chinese from Oregon City is an outrage of a sort that may be committed at any time at any small town, but is much more likely to be committed at a town near to Portland than one at a distance from it. As Oregon City is almost a suburb of Portland, the lawless scheme could easily be engineered here. All the substantial and responsible people of Oregon City are against it, of course. We do not suppose that even John Myers was of the party that committed the outrage. But while orderly, quiet, conscientious and law-abiding people are asleep, those who meditate unlawful enterprises are awake and in action. Oregon City has no police force, and the thing that would have been prevented during the hours when decent and law-abiding people are on the alert, was easily consummated at the time the cowardly plotters chose for it.

All the deported Chinese, thirty-nine in number, were workmen in the woolen factory of Messrs. Jacobs Brothers. Part of them were operatives at the looms and part worked in the finishing room. Their "removal" causes a stoppage of operations at the factory to the extent of their employment therein. Some weeks ago the manager discharged twenty-one Chinese, whose places he filled with white persons as he could. It was the intention to let all the Chinese go as soon as white persons could be obtained and trained to the work. At present the latter cannot be had, and consequently operations at the factory will be greatly curtailed. The proprietors will make an effort to put in white persons and train them to the work, but if the effort fails, or if the wages are not within limits that will save them from loss, undoubtedly they will shut down altogether.

This factory is one of the most important industrial enterprises in the state. Its goods are of the most substantial and durable kinds. In styles, quality and finish they are equal to any, in any market. The production of such goods shows fairly what can be done here on an extended scale, as soon as the conditions are ripe for it. But the market for these goods among us is limited. Our own people do not take willingly to goods of Oregon manufacture, though none are more attractive or excellent. Eastern and foreign goods must be competed with, under the disadvantage of a limited market on the one hand and a short supply of skilled labor on the other. Messrs. Jacobs Brothers carry on a jobbing trade in clothing made from these goods, but the goods cannot be made up here. They send the cloths to San Francisco and bring back the finished clothing, solely because they cannot get the goods made up here without steady loss. These are some of the difficulties of the business. Again, as so many people here do not want to wear Oregon goods, dealers, of course, are slow to call for them. The singular consequence is that the best market for these goods is in the Eastern states. Orders come from St. Paul, Milwaukee, Detroit, Rochester and other distant cities, where the durability and finish of the goods are highly prized. But of course if an adequate supply of skilled labor cannot be had here at moderate wages, such a factory cannot run. Since it depends chiefly on the East for its market, the wages the factory pays for production of these goods cannot be higher than wages paid in the Eastern states; and heretofore it has been only by employment of Chinese that the establishment has been kept in operation at all. Through the aid of Chinese labor the proprietors have been able to sell goods in the eastern market, and this has kept the factory in operation. The call for their goods here would not enable them to run three months in the year.

The problem, then, is this, viz: Can white labor be had here in sufficient supply and at rates which will enable the manufacturers of this class of goods to ship their product east and sell it in competition with like product of eastern factories? If so, the manufacture of woolen goods will, in time, be worked up into an extensive system here. If not, there will be little in the business and it will make no advancement. It must be remembered that our own market in all lines is contested at every step by eastern manufacturers; that this market is limited at best, and that our own people are continually evincing a stubborn disinclination to use Oregon goods. This last fact is a continual drawback of no small magnitude. Oregon canned goods are still shipped to San Francisco, where they get the labels of California packers, and are then returned here, to be bought by consumers without any question; nor indeed is there need of question, for these goods are unsurpassed. To gain considerable success here in the creation of manufacturing industry, labor and the profits of capital must both come down about to the eastern level; our people, as far as they can, must give our home manufacturers the home market; there must be a supply of skilled labor to enable manufacturers to keep their establishments in steady operation, merchants and jobbers must show a disposition to "work" the market for goods of home production, and there must be mutual assistance all round, instead of opposition and distrust. Such a problem is not to be worked out through a blind crusade upon the Chinese. The truth is, the presence of the Chinese here has enabled our people to make a start in many industries that would otherwise have remained undeveloped, or even untouched, down to this time; and there is no person of judgment who does not know that though the Chinese here appear, to some extent, to be in the way of white laborers, yet on the whole they have opened avenues for the employment of white labor, as well as of capital, which without them, would still be closed. The great fish packing interest has depended almost wholly on them, so likewise has the clearing of our timber lands, and there are innumerable small employments in which they have been for years a helpful auxiliary force. Even at Oregon City, from which place they have now been unlawfully deported, they have kept the woolen factory, the principal industry of the place, in operation. It now remains to be seen whether it can go on without them. No one can expect the proprietors to run at a loss. Nor can the factory run without skilled operatives in every department. It has not now enough, and cannot at once get them. Yet it must run as a whole, or not at all. At Puget sound the Chinese were all driven away from the coal mines some time since, and now the mines are [illegible] shutting down, for the reason, as the proprietors say, that they cannot afford to go on with a business that causes great losses. Results like this show that the expulsion of the Chinese, instead of making more work for our own people, only diminishes it. Industrial questions are too complex and have too wide a reach to be handled successfully in so blind a way.

We beg the bogus journal to grow calm, so it may catch its breath, while we remark that its loud boasts about its marvellous prosperity do not sort well with its excessive irritability when reference is made to certain open secrets as to certain newspaper affairs present and prospective. It is well known that a number of democrats here have been canvassing a proposition to get up a morning democratic newspaper. Application has been made to THE OREGONIAN for the reports of the associated press for such paper, and it has offered the reports at half their present cost to itself. The plan, it is widely reported, includes a yet somewhat indefinite talk about the purchase of the "plant" of the bogus News for the sum of $16,000 and assumption of a debt of $6000 more. Now we submit that there is nothing at all in the publication of these matters for the bogus journal to allow itself to become frantic about. It ought to reserve its heat and energy for the lawless assault upon the Chinese, which it has so long been contriving.

Gen Grant's opinions on the Fitz John Porter matter are likely to be of importance in getting the bill through the senate. Its passage is said to depend upon the vote of Senator Stanford, and his reverence for the opinion of Gen Grant will, it is surmised, keep him from voting with the majority of republican senators when the bill comes up for final passage.

WORK OF THE ASSESSMENT COMMISSION.

The commission created by the legislature at its last session to provide a system of assessment and taxation to be submitted at the next session, has prepared a bill after many meetings and much discussion, and will soon file it, with an accompanying report, with the secretary of state. The bill entire and the report will be given to the public as soon as the commission has ended its labors. It is desired that the proposed measure shall have the widest possible circulation before the legislative nominations are made, so that the people may choose men for or against it, and it is hoped that it will be made an issue in the June elections. The existing laws regulating assessment and taxation are indefinite, contradictory and impracticable, and this system proposed by the commission or some other ought to be adopted at the next legislative session. Unequal assessment laws tend to uncertainty and confusion of business, and to [illegible] hardship and injustice.

The commission bill provides for the assessment and taxation of all real and personal property in the state and of all personal property of residents of the state no matter where it may be. Credits are to be taxed as under existing law but instead of allowing deductions for indebtedness against all taxable property as heretofore, deductions apply only against credits. That is, a man may deduct from his assessment the balance against him as shown by his credit and debit accounts. It is provided that railroad, insurance, express, telephone, sleeping car, wagon road and bridge companies shall be taxed on their gross receipts. Telegraph companies are to be taxed upon miles of wire. The taxation of mortgages is arranged upon an equitable basis between the mortgagee and mortgagor. The true cash value of the property under mortgage is first to be ascertained and this value divided between the mortgagee and mortgagor in proportion to their respective interests.

It is provided that each county shall be divided into assessment districts by the county court, and that for each district excepting that in which he resides, the county assessor shall, subject to the approval of the county court, appoint a deputy who shall adjust assessments in accordance with the true value of the property. Each district assessor must state upon oath that the values assessed are the true values. The county assessor shall himself assess the district in which he resides, under the rules which govern his deputies. Assessments shall be made upon property as it existed on the 1st day of April each year, and the roll must be completed by the 30th of May. For the convenience of assessors and tax payers, the commission has prepared lists and classifications of properties.

It is provided that county boards of equalization shall consist of the judge and commissioners, who are authorized to equalize assessments according to rules provided, and not otherwise. The state board of equalization is to consist of one representative from each judicial district, to be elected by the voters thereof and to hold office four years. The business of the state board is to equalize aggregates, as between counties, and the board has no authority over individual assessments.

Taxes of all classes, state, county, road and school district, are made payable in a lump to county treasurers, due and payable October 1 of each year and becoming delinquent January 1 following. After that time the assessment roll is turned over to the sheriff, who is authorized to exact an additional 5 per cent. and to collect by distraint and sale of property. A form of receipt is provided, showing the levy for each purpose, describing the real property, giving the total valuation of the personal property and stating the whole amount of the tax. The commission has amplified the law governing redemption of property and providing definite rules therefor.

Without careful study of the measure outlined above (the full text is not yet available) we are not prepared to judge of its merits except in the most general way. The summary gives the impression of a carefully considered law, and one adapted to the needs of the state, a law whose simplicity is pleasantly in contrast with our present complex and indefinite system. It is certain that the commission has given a great deal of time and labor to preparing it. We shall await the complete publication, with the argument of the commission concerning it, with interest.

THE DEMANDS OF SOCIALISM

Prof Sumner of Yale college, discoursed recently to a large body of students of that institution upon socialism. His scope of observation upon this subject is wide and his opinions are entitled to large consideration from this fact. Socialism he defined to be "any scheme, doctrine or project which aims at an equality of all men and involves the aid of the many to accomplish its ends." Fifty years ago communism meant the equal distribution of all the property in existence, but that idea has been superceded by what, in the parlance of its advocates is called the "co-operative commonwealth," which means that every one is to be forced to come in and co-operate with every one else—an idea that is the embodiment of that tyranny which these misguided men loudly profess to abhor.

When the progress of the century is computed it is found that it has exceeded that of the previous 1000 years of history. This progress is largely the product of invention. An invention is defined as simply a new power by which man can gain control over nature in his struggle for existence. It has enabled men of ability and honesty to advance far beyond the ordinary workman in his trade. There is a wide and constantly widening field in which talent can exercise itself in the great industrial pursuits. To be prepared for the changes that are constantly occurring, nay to help make these changes, financial ability of more than a mere plodding order is necessary. The man who does not foresee and plan, who does not utilize invention and keep up with the processes of the changing years, lags behind in the race and takes a secondary place in the world. In this way comes the marked inequality of conditions among men, and the inequalities are what socialists are crying out against. They would fain bring the power of law to aid their plans, and would not hesitate to inaugurate revolution in order to get for themselves an equal share in these things which their own abilities have been unable to secure for them. In the middle ages, and to some extent even now in other countries, it was declared that he only should rule who was of noble birth; but in this country [illegible] worth, energy, industry and sagacity make for their possessors a place in the world which they take as their due.

Professor Sumner calls attention to the fact that while there is too much of truth in the complaint of poverty among the working classes a comparison shows that the present condition of these classes is better than it ever has been before. He cites in support of this fact that of the 1,500,000,000 people on the globe 50,000,000 come [illegible] what might be called well off, and upon this rests the splendid triumph of our modern civilization. Socialists propose that the little progress made shall be wiped out, because the whole has not yet been accomplished, and every body made well off. They say of the man who is better off than his neighbor, let us pull him down [illegible] there should be an equality in matters of property. A glance among the working peoples' homes, the homes that are supplied by an equal amount of money, is sufficient in itself to refute this idea of a literal equality. Here is a home to which the laborer's $30 or $40 per month brings every substantial comfort; close beside is one in which unthrift rules and over which debt ever hangs, while in still another there is no Sunday dinner because the laboring man who is its head spent the last of his month's wages at the grog shop Saturday night. It is one of the chief boasts of freemen that they rule themselves, and nowhere else is this more apparent than in the domain of labor, which is just now rent with the loud complaint of those who, failing in the ability or inclination to get on in the world, consider that their more capable neighbor should divide the accumulations of sobriety, industry and careful management with them.

Extensively "polite," were those burglars and ruffians who entered the houses of the Chinese at Oregon City at the dead of night, dragged out the inmates and hustled them off under fear of their lives. Brave men are they, too, who engage in this manner, under cover of darkness, in a lawless enterprise which they would not dare to attempt in open day. Proud specimens of American citizenship are they who do a thing of this kind, for lawless outrage to boast of as an honorable enterprise. And they did it so considerately and so tenderly! The highwayman who covers you with his shotgun, while his associate goes through your pockets, could not be more "gentle," more "law-abiding," or more "polite." Murderous mutineers never scuttled a ship or cut a throat, and they did everything "decently and in order."

THE DEATH OF A MISER

The death of a grandson of Thomas Treat Paine one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence in squalor and wretchedness is recorded as having taken place in New York recently. Though he died in a filthy attic and had lacked every comfort of life for years, he is believed to have been worth half a million dollars. The death of a human being from the sharp pressure of want is a spectacle from which the heart of humanity recoils; but in a case wherein privation is the result of a miserly spirit that chooses starvation in the midst of abundance, the kind offices of pity are as wasted sentiment and effort merely. Says [illegible] in contemplating an end so miserable:

Of all the [illegible]
Not a bargain [illegible] terms with [illegible]

It seems, indeed, that this estimate is a just one, as a man leaving behind a sufficiency to have maintained himself in comfort and luxury throughout a long life, wastes away unattended upon a bed of pain, dies and is buried in the filthy covering that has covered his emaciated body for years, the regulation pine coffin of the pauper and a corner in Potter's field the bestowal of enforced charity. Of all phases of human character, that of a miserly spirit, pushed to the extreme of niggardliness, is the most difficult to comprehend. The essence of selfishness, it yet defeats every object of a selfish mind. In its morbid thirst for riches it turns every benefit that could accrue from wealth into a curse, lives in filth and dies in extreme want though possessed of abundance.

As illustrative of the force and growth of habit, the wretched life and miserable death of this miserly descendant of Thomas Treat Paine is striking, as such things go. His [illegible] miserly habits in early youth, possibly [illegible] by inheritance, and these grew upon him to such an extent that even when suffering from a broken limb he refused the services of a physician, and died as he had lived, filthy and uncared for. His possessions were so carefully secreted that the public administrator has not yet been able to find them. The only good turn that such a man ever does the world is when he leaves it and gives his hoardings back to long defrauded usefulness.

A bookkeeper of Springfield, Mass., has invented an "adding machine" that it is claimed will discount the machine methods of the public schools. It is urged in favor of the contrivance that its internal clock work is more accurate than a human head can hope to be at all times, that it is proof against malaria and that it is never larger in the morning than it was the night before. In addition to this proud superiority over human conditions the inventor, who has worked on the machine since 187[illegible], claims for it unerring accuracy and surprising rapidity, an expert being able to add 240 figures per minute with it. Inasmuch as the days are just as long as they used to be and accountants out of jobs are more numerous than ever, it would seem that lightning speed in this business is not particularly necessary. However, as long as our glorious public school system does not require members of the infant class to learn to operate these machines there is no real cause for complaint in their introduction.

The appointment of a committee of fifteen, with A N Hamilton of the News at their head to go among the Chinese of this city and to attempt, by terrorizing and intimidating them, to compel them to leave the country, is the introductory step to an unlawful act. What it contemplates is an open and gross violation of the laws of the United States, and there is a court of the United States here that will not be likely to overlook or omit any duty imposed upon it by law. Men going upon such an enterprise as they propose will be subject to arrest, and good citizens are not likely to be wanting who will file the necessary information. The Oregon penitentiary is very full, but it can yet make room for a few more.

---

The brawlers last night were a considerable body—in numbers. There were several hundred of them, mostly non-residents and wholly unknown. Such a crowd can easily be collected for a noisy demonstration on any question that appeals to those who find law and order irksome. Not one in ten was an actual resident of Portland, or ever will be identified with its interests and citizenship. They were mostly unknown men, who never had residence anywhere, and could as easily be moved to a crusade upon the negroes as upon the Chinese.

Representatives of "classic Dartmouth's old lege halls" held a reunion in Boston recently which was the largest gathering in the history of the alumni association of that college, one hundred and fifteen members being present. The statistician computed that this number comprised one twentieth of all the graduates of Dartmouth now living.

If the bogus paper had four hundred subscribers two years ago and has eight hundred now, its gain has been one hundred per cent. THE OREGONIAN has not gained one hundred per cent in two years, but its gain in that time has been more than three times the whole present circulation of the bogus paper.

A [illegible] from Oregon City says it was "Nat [illegible] Baker and Al[illegible] White who led in the brave work there." A precious pair of [illegible], loafers and scoundrels to set themselves up as "leaders" of a workingmen's movement. No characters so vile, degraded and worthless as they has yet been reported here or elsewhere.

---

Mr Frank C Baker of this city, one of the [illegible] of the [illegible], is named by many as a suitable person for the position of state printer. It is said he will be a candidate for the nomination at the hands of the republicans. It would be a good and popular selection.

---

The [illegible] levied upon the Chinese at Oregon City naturally included a demand for their money. The "good citizens" who went out upon that midnight raid also robbed their victims, of course.

---

The procession last night was made up of just such materials as may be collected at any time in any cause with a brass band and a tar barrel.

Two-thirds of the men who marched in the anti-coolie procession last night were smoking cigars of Chinese manufacture.

J. J. Estes, [illegible], Chickasaw Nation, Indian Territory, writes: "I have to thank Allcock's Porous Plasters for saving the life of my wife. She was attacked with pneumonia, which commenced with a violent chill, great coughing and high fever. I could not get a doctor, but fortunately I had a box of Allcock's Porous Plasters in the house. I placed one between her breasts and [illegible] shoulder blades, and one on the small of her back. In two hours her cough almost ceased, and [illegible] in four hours she broke into a [illegible] perspiration. The next day though very weak she was free from fever and the third day was quite well. I also cured my child of diphtheria [illegible] by wrapping the neck in an Allcock's Porous Plaster."

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON CITY

Estimates of Expenses—Obstructions to Navigation—Measures for the Territories

[Correspondence of The Oregonian.]

WASHINGTON, Feb 15

The secretary of the treasury has notified congress that the following amounts will be required to meet the expenses of collecting the revenue from customs during the next fiscal year in the Oregon and Washington districts: Port of Portland, $17,500; Astoria, $8860; Coos bay, $1500; Yaquina, $1200; Port Townsend, $[illegible],100.

A comparison with the cost of the service during the last year shows that these estimates represent a general reduction of expenses in Oregon and an increase in Washington. The expenditures for the last year were as follows: Portland, $[illegible]; Astoria, $11,028; Coos bay, $[illegible]; Yaquina, $[illegible]; Port Townsend, $[illegible].

The only district in the state that fails to pay expenses is that of Southern Oregon, Coos bay, where it cost $7 30 to collect $1. As a consequence the department favors the abolishment of the district.

The committee on claims have before them for consideration a measure prepared by Mr Hermann providing that the sum of $1,206,6[illegible] be appropriated for payment of balance due to sundry claimants in Oregon and Washington arising out of the Indian wars of 1855-6, as found due and payable by the commission appointed by the secretary of war, consisting of A J Smith, Rufus Ingalls, and [illegible] Grover.

In response to the request for information as to the bridges, or other structures, in the Oregon and Washington districts which interfere with free and safe navigation Major Jones has reported the following:

UPPER WILLAMETTE RIVER

"With regard to the rope ferry canoes they are low down, and when steamboats approach the whistle is blown for the owners, (who are never near, as every one crossing on these ferry themselves over) and if they do not come they either have to send a man ashore to let go the cable or run through it."

The wire ferry cables are also condemned.

"As to the draw bridge at Harrisburg, the secretary is informed that no boats have passed through the draw since 1878. The deep water now under the bridge, near the north bank of the river. A new draw must be put in across the present deep channel. The sooner the better, as freight charges are from Eugene City to Portland double those from Harrisburg, and the railroad is the cause of it."

It is proper to add that Maj Jones transmits this information as coming from steamboat owners.

The bridge of the Northern Pacific railroad over the Cowlitz river is pronounced an obstruction, and should be remedied by building a new draw over the deep channel, and the railroad company should be required, if possible, to maintain the channel in its present place by means of training dykes and bank revetments.

The report concludes: "The bridges over the Willamette, the Yamhill, and the Cowlitz are obstructions to navigation, but in the short time at my disposal I am not prepared to suggest methods of altering or constructing said bridges. The wire-rope ferries on the Cowlitz can be altered by raising the cables higher. The same may be said of those on the Willamette river."

In relation to Yaquina bay it is said that "Depot slough extends northward almost to the Siletz Indian reservation. It drains quite an extensive country, which contains excellent ranches and most of the available timber on the waters of the Yaquina. The Willamette Valley & Coast Railroad company have built five bridges over the tidewater sloughs—Boone's, Depot and Olalla. Boone's and McGee's sloughs are so shallow and unimportant that a change in the railroad bridges over them is not deemed necessary, but at Depot and Olalla sloughs I think movable spans giving forty feet clear width of opening should be provided."

FOR THE TERRITORIES

The committee on territories have under consideration a measure of considerable importance to all the territories. It is intended to prohibit the passage of local or special laws in the territories. The provisions, being of such general interest, I here give:

The legislatures of the territories shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases:

Granting divorces, changing the names of persons or places, laying out, opening, altering, and working roads or highways, vacating roads, town plats, streets, alleys and public grounds, locating or changing county seats, regulating county or township affairs, regulating the practice in courts of justice, regulating the duties and jurisdiction of justices of the peace and other judicial officers, providing for change of venue in civil and criminal cases, incorporating cities, towns, or villages, or amending the charter thereof, providing for the election of town officials, summoning and impaneling jurors, providing for the management of public schools, regulating the rate of interest on money, the opening and conducting of any election, the protection of game or fish, licensing bridges, remitting fines, penalties or forfeitures, creating public offices or interfering with the fees thereof, changing the law of descent, granting to any corporation or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks, granting to any corporation or individual special or exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise.

In all cases where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted in any territory and all acts hereafter passed by any territorial legislature in conflict with the provisions of this act shall be null and void.

The author of this measure is Springer, of Illinois, and as he is a member of the committee, it will be pressed upon the attention of the house. It would seem, from the comprehensive character of the measure, that little, in the way of legislation, is left to be done by the territorial legislatures.

The committee on claims have a measure to pay $7,[illegible] to C H Hale, of Olympia, for expense incurred in carrying the mail from Olympia to Victoria from July 1 1866, to June 30 1870, being an increased distance of thirty miles on account of the removal of the custom house from Port Angeles to Port Townsend, and an order from the treasury department increasing the distance of the mail route thirty miles.

Wm Gallick of Portland asks the payment to him of $15,000 for cattle killed at Neah bay agency, and used by the government in [illegible] the Indians.

F. C. [illegible], late Indian agent at Tulalip, asks that the treasury department be required to settle his accounts "upon the principles of equity and justice" and to award him credit for disbursements made for the Indians.

CHANGE OF AGENCY.

Capt. John N. Coutts having succeeded G. F. Hopp as agent for THE DAILY OREGONIAN is now ready to serve all old subscribers and any new ones. Send name and address to P. O. box A, Tacoma.

A. O. U. W. RECEPTION.—The officers and members of Hope lodge No. 1 A. O. U. W. gave a public reception to their friends last night at their new hall in New Market theatre building. A programme of considerable merit was given and met with the hearty approval of the large audience present. Hon S A Moreland presided as master of ceremonies and the first speaker introduced was Hon John F Caples who in his usual entertaining manner paid a glowing tribute to the A O U W, its great work in rendering aid and assistance to the widows and orphans of departed members. D T. Wheeler grand recorder followed, and gave a statistical account of the order in Oregon and Washington territory. He said that the grand army of United Workmen numbered to-day over 16,000 members in the United States and represented an insurance carried by its membership of over $[illegible]. During the year ending December 31 1885 the order had paid to widows of departed brethren over $1[illegible]50,000 without one case of litigation. Miss D Ha… and Master Henry Shulderman played an excellent duet on the piano. Next on the programme was an address by Mr T A Stephens D G M W for this district. A piano duet by the Misses Jose and Maggie Kohler followed and met with hearty approval. Miss Ivy Morgan a child about — years of age fairly took the house by storm with her recitation of "Entertaining the Missionary Agent" and was compelled to respond to an encore. At the conclusion of the entertainment all present were invited to partake of a bountiful supper provided by the wives of the members of Hope lodge No 1.

BUSINESS FAILURE.—To-day when the county clerk's office opens R. C. Janion & Son, the well known shipping and commission merchants and agents for Lloyd's will make an assignment to George Stuart Clark the manager of the Victoria branch of the same house. Papers were made out yesterday, but it being a holiday, could not be filed. The most peculiar thing about the assignment is that the firm owes nothing in Portland outside of incidental expenses since the first of the month—in all a trifling amount. It is an open secret that the Portland agency for several years has made no money, owing to inefficient management and it was the intention of the firm soon to "pull up stakes" here. A gentleman familiar with the affairs of the concern said yesterday to an OREGONIAN reporter, that the assignment is for the protection of Mr Clark who is now in the city. The British bark Doven… consigned to the firm arrived here Saturday night and certain charges have to be advanced. If Mr Clark advanced the money and then an assignment came he would be simply a creditor. If he makes the advances as assignee [illegible] he can suffer no personal loss. The amount of liabilities and assets as set forth in the articles of assignment could not be learned.

GOING IN SEARCH OF HEALTH.—For the past three months or more Mrs Hobart wife of Rev C H Hobart pastor of the Baptist church in East Portland has been a great sufferer from a cough and bronchial troubles, and they have decided upon a change of climate hoping for a restoration to health. At the meeting of the church people on Sunday a leave of absence for a month or so was voted and Mr and Mrs Hobart will leave for Southern Oregon on Wednesday or Thursday of this week. It is likely that they will make Medford their temporary stopping place. Since coming here nearly two years ago Mr and Mrs Hobart have been untiring in their labors for the good of others and the upbuilding of the church and have greatly endeared themselves to church people especially and the citizens of East Portland generally. They go on their journey with the God speed of all, and the earnest prayer of their people for the full recovery of the estimable wife and helpmeet.

STRUCK WITH A PISTOL.—About 10 o'clock yesterday morning James McCleary appeared at the Portland General hospital to have a bad wound on his forehead about two inches in length running up and over his right eye sewed up. McCleary was noncommittal, his version of the cause of his hurt being that it was caused by his falling down. Inquiry elicits the fact that he was struck in a saloon with a revolver. The surgeon in attendance dressed the wound and when last heard from Mr. Cleary was resting easy. The injured man bled profusely but will come out all right. It is thought the reason of his refusing to give a full story of his case is that he does not wish the person who struck him arrested.

A FINE EXHIBIT.—C. H. Ricker, of the Columbia River poultry yard, Vancouver who started in business five years ago has increased rapidly and to-day has the largest establishment for breeding in the Northwest. He was busy yesterday arranging his display of fowls, among which were a pen, trio, and pair of Brown Leghorns, and an equivalent in three coops of Plymouth Rocks, also a number of Black Javas, Wyandotts and Rouen ducks and several White Leghorns. This is no doubt the largest exhibit made by a single person and much credit is due Mr. Ricker for the energy displayed in assisting to make the poultry show a success. He will be at the exhibition to-day and tell you all about the fowls.

ARRESTED.—Several days since Mrs Eliza Scott put in an appearance in Justice Davis's court and swore out a warrant for the arrest of a young fellow named Fred Richardson on a charge of lewdly cohabiting with Pearl Emerson. Yesterday afternoon constable Higley arrested Richardson at his lodgings at the northwest corner of Fifth and Morrison streets, and as he was unable to put up $200 for his appearance for examination this morning, he was committed to the county jail. Shortly after Richardson's arrest, Pearl Emerson visited Judge Davis and informed him that it was not she who was living with Richardson, but another woman. It seems to be about six of one and half a dozen of the other. The case will be looked into to-day and passed upon.

A DOMESTIC EPISODE.—Yesterday Mrs Sarah F Merchant was arrested on a warrant issued out of Justice Davis's court on a charge of larceny by bailee of six chairs and a piece of carpet. The story goes that some time ago the lodging house of Mrs B M Reynolds was destroyed by fire, and she left her things with Mrs Merchant for safekeeping. On demanding their return storage was claimed, and payment of it refused by Mrs Reynolds. After Mrs. Merchant had been brought in by constable Higley, Justice Davis informed her that the storage question was simply a matter of debt which would have to be decided if at all in a civil action. The other case comes up for trial at 10 o'clock this morning.

DROWNED AT OREGON CITY.—Word has been received in Portland that yesterday morning while Frank Hedges, a son of Joseph Hedges, was walking alongside of the new canal at Oregon City on his way to his work he was seized with a fit. It resulted in his falling into the canal and before assistance arrived he had sunk. Being in a canal, the body was easily recovered. Young Hedges has been subject to epileptic fits, and though the drowning is sad, it is not surprising under the circumstances.

A DISAPPOINTED PRISONER.—F S Gickeson was tried before Judge Deady on Saturday for cutting timber on government land and fined $100. He concluded to go to jail under the impression that he could serve out his fine more easily than he could raise the money. He was somewhat disappointed when he found out that his imprisonment was "till the fine be paid." He will probably give up the idea of serving it out and turn his attention to raising the money.

DROWNING.—John Rosin a laborer who was sitting on a plank on the wharf at the Albina coal bunkers yesterday at noontime was accidentally thrown overboard by the plank turning. He fell about fifteen feet and struck his back on the rail of the ship Henry Villard and then fell into the river. He rose to the surface and immediately sank and was seen no more. His back it is thought was broken by striking against the vessel and thus rendered him incapable of putting forth any effort to save himself.

THE POULTRY AND PET STOCK SHOW.—To-day the exhibition will open near the corner of First and Morrison. Some fifty coops of choice poultry, ducks, etc were received and placed in position. There will be fully seventy coops on exhibition before evening, and a successful show may be anticipated.

BRIEF MENTION.

First performance of "Patience" at the Casino to-night.

Levin Lindgren was admitted to citizenship in the U S court yesterday.

The convention of Christian workers will commence to-day in Taylor street church at 12 o'clock.

If Benjamin T South late of Yaquina Bay will call on Dr J Sharman 187 Fourth street, he will learn something to his advantage.

H J McIntyre has just completed a new residence on his farm at the head of Sauvie's Island. The event was celebrated last night by a grand housewarming, including a big supper and dance.

M D Marcus and S H Epstein have been granted a patent to their electric fire escape and have already received offers looking to it being placed on the market. The invention has already been described at length in these columns.

Judge Stearns will announce his decision to-day in the case of Jacob Cline vs. Wally Cline. This is a double divorce suit. Wally has already obtained a legal separation from Jacob and he now comes in and asks a divorce from her on the ground of desertion.

Hundreds of people took advantage of the lovely weather and the holiday yesterday to go abroad for an airing. Very few places of business were closed. The Washington Guards paraded as is their invariable custom on Washington's birthday and gave a fine ball in the evening.

Capt M Sebree of the lighthouse service has been instructed to sell the old steamer Shubrick. He was ordered to insert advertisements in the Astorian, Standard and San Francisco Chronicle. The order as far as it relates to the Standard will probably have to be countermanded.

In the reference to Third street and its business men in Sunday's issue the ownership of the block on the northwest corner of Third and Morrison was credited to Mr Hegele. It belongs to Mr C A Alisky, the association of the names leading to the error.

Ham Min, an ex-merchant and a high-toned Chinese Highbinder died Sunday of consumption. He will be buried to-day with all the usual tum tum, big procession and all that sort of thing. His knives, hatchets and other implements of war will be buried with him. The funeral cortege will start from DeLin's promptly at 2 o'clock P M.

Saturday last John Shaughnessy, a butcher at the corner of Third and Salmon streets, while cutting a joint of beef accidentally let his knife slip, resulting in his cutting a gash an inch long in his right thigh just above the knee. A physician who was called sewed up the wound, and Shaughnessy will suffer no permanent injury but will walk lame for several weeks.

The annual meeting of the Oregon Bible society will be held in this city on Friday evening March 5, at 7:30 in the First Presbyterian church.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE.

All the Chinese Employed in the Oregon City Woolen Mills Driven Out in the Dead of Night.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning a force of white ruffians went to the Chinese quarters of Oregon City, burst open the doors of the dwellings, pulled the Chinese out of their bunks, collected them around, twisted their queues, robbed them of what money they had in their pockets and notified them that they must leave forthwith. Having no protection, whatever the Chinese were forced to obey. The purser of the steamer Latona was awakened and asked whether he would take a cargo to Portland and how soon he could get ready. He answered that he was willing to take a cargo and that he could have steam up in an hour. Nothing was said about the nature of the cargo but in less than an hour forty Chinamen came quietly to the wharf and then stepped aboard the steamer. Not one of the Chinamen spoke a word but carried his baggage on his shoulder and made himself as comfortable as possible in the cold. The purser was then asked how much he would charge per head to bring the Chinamen down to Portland. On naming the amount the money was passed over into his hands without a word. Some one on the wharf then sang out "Cast off your lines." This was done and the Latona was soon on her way toward Portland. The passages were no doubt paid out of the money stolen from the Chinese. The steamer arrived here about 4 o'clock.

For some time past there has been a law and order organization at Oregon City with plenty of men to uphold the law but on Sunday night they were caught napping. If the Chinese had been brave enough to raise an alarm they would no doubt have received ample protection, but several of the rioters [illegible] and threatened to kill them if they blew a whistle or uttered a cry.

The movement was headed by the notorious Nat Faler of Portland and the equally disreputable Al White of Oregon City. Each had the gall to brag about it in public speeches at the plaza last night. The mob numbered about sixty and was composed entirely of the worst elements with which Oregon City is infested.

A well known merchant stated last night that an effort will be made to have several of the rioters indicted [illegible]. Yesterday afternoon a meeting of merchants and decent citizens generally was held at Oregon City and measures taken to prevent a recurrence of the outrage. All the Chinese driven away had been employed in the large woolen mills at that place which also employs about one hundred and twenty white operatives. There remain in Oregon City fifteen or twenty Chinese. Whether the Chinese driven away will return to work is undecided. They were too much frightened yesterday to consider such a step but if they do return the law abiding citizens will do their best to give them ample protection.

THE TURNERS' MASQUERADE

The Portland Turn Verein gave a grand masquerade ball at the Mechanics' pavilion last night, the occasion being the celebration of Washington's birthday. The immense building was crowded with maskers and spectators. The brilliant costumes and tasteful drapings of colored tarletan and liberal use of the Stars and Stripes made the scene a gorgeous spectacle. There were the usual number of shepherdesses, nuns, peasant maids and pages, princes, Indians etc. Among the more noticeable was the Japanese Mikado group and it being an off night at the Casino several of the members of the opera company took the opportunity offered for a little lark. Those noticed were Miss Cora Gillis as a page in the gorgeous costume of Louis XV, and the Misses Sanger. Miss Fannie as Spanish prince and Miss Lizzie Christy Girl, and the above mentioned Mikado group.

The prizes were for the best sustained characters. The first gentlemen's prize, a handsome gold headed cane, was awarded Otto Roenicke, who is a Turner, but as the cross legged tailor at his work bench was without question the best made up and best sustained character of the evening. The second gentlemen's prize was won by Lewis Wise, who as a Hebrew peddler was captured. First ladies' prize Miss Hildebrand who as "Comic" was very pretty. Miss Anna Weak captured the second ladies' prize. And the Mikado group—Messrs Hublard, Rotford, Botofsky and Weber—were given the group prize. There were several capital groups, particularly the "Slabtown band," the "clown and acrobatic" group and the "Italian bandit bear" group.

Promptly at 9 the grand march began, headed by the "Slab Town Band," with the maskers, two by two, in a seemingly endless procession. At midnight the masks were removed and the prizes awarded. The judges were Messrs A. Feldenheimer, A. Roberts, T. G. Abell, E. R. Bethlow and C. A. Alisky. They performed their difficult task to the complete satisfaction of both maskers and spectators. The members of the different committees in charge of the entertainment were: Reception committee—Mr Pleabuski, Mr Hoefer, Mr Beavy and Mr Praeemeyer. Floor committee—Dr Semler, Mr Roenecke, Mr Ruttenacher and Mr Ling. Refreshment committee—H S Schroder and Mr House. Mr Schacht and Mr Krishe had the difficult task of marshalling the maskers for the grand march. The ball did not break up until the "wee sma' hours."

LODGE HALL DEDICATION.

The Masons of Oregon City Formally Take Possession of their New Hall.

Last night the new lodge hall built by Multnomah Lodge No 1 Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, of Oregon City, upon the site of their old hall recently destroyed by fire, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. The grand lodge of Oregon had been invited by Multnomah lodge to conduct the exercises, and accepted. The ceremonies were public. For some time the Oregon City lodge have been occupying the Odd Fellows' meeting room. Here the grand lodge opened in due and ancient form, with the following officers: T G Reames, most worshipful grand master; George M. Stroud, acting deputy grand master; James Robinson, acting grand senior warden; Brenham Van Dusen, grand junior warden; D C McKercher, grand treasurer; F J Babcock, grand secretary; Rev R W Hill grand orator; J B. McElroy acting grand chaplain; Wm Harris, acting grand senior deacon; J M Bacon acting grand junior deacon; J C Moreland grand marshal; Christopher Taylor grand standard bearer; J. G. Pilsbury and C W Ganong acting stewards; Oscar Holtz and Samuel Gill acting masters of ceremonies and E A McBride acting grand tyler. After the opening the grand lodge, preceded by Multnomah lodge and a large number of visiting brethren marched to the new hall. This is one of the most beautiful lodge rooms in the state and reflects great credit on the enterprise and good taste of old Multnomah—the oldest lodge in the Northwest country. The impressive ceremonies of the grand lodge were gone through with, greatly enhanced by music by a fine choir. A very large and cultivated audience was present. After the ceremonies the Rev R W Hill of Salem delivered an address which was pronounced by those present as the finest ever delivered on a similar occasion in the state. It was a discussion of the living questions of the day. He spoke in terms of severest condemnation of the act of driving out the Chinese from Oregon City the morning.

A banquet was served in the room below and the visitors were royally well treated. At 10 o'clock dancing began and was kept up till a late hour. Altogether it was a great success for the Masons of Oregon City.

A FRIEND'S TRIBUTE.

A warm personal friend of Einar Pihl, the dead engineer contributes the following which will be read with interest by many who were glad to be counted friends of the deceased.

On Thursday last, amid the toil and bustle of this ever active world, while the bright sun shed its genial rays upon the green and wooded hills or danced upon the smiling river the book of life containing the records of Einar Pihl was closed and clasped forever.

> And all without went on
> As it will in sunshine or tempest,
> Unmindful that a heart is broken
> Or is breaking in its change.

It seems but yesterday that the departed stood and worked by my side and nothing could have been farther from my thoughts than that he in four short weeks would be lying stark and cold in death. Mr Pihl was a gentleman whom to know was to admire both for his professional attainments and social qualities, combining a bright intellect, a warm heart and a gentle spirit. In him the world has lost a courteous gentleman, a loving friend and the profession a promising member. He was a great favorite with his companions and admired and respected by those over whom he held control.

He is gone—no longer battling bravely with the adversities of this life, no longer toiling cheerfully along the path of truth and honor, no longer here but peacefully resting in that long last sleep, in which we all sooner or later must fall. Death at all times is sad and full of sorrow, but how much more must be the sadness and the sorrow of his parents, who far away and with the short but terrible dispatch falling from their nerveless hands gaze with tearful eyes across the sea to their dearly loved son, dead in a foreign land. This is the first heavy loss they have ever experienced and God grant them strength to bear it and in future years as their hearts have softened by their sorrow may they see the light of hope, the very clouds that now make the day so dark grow gloriously beautiful as sunshine breaking across the hill at the close of a stormy day. F.

IT IS MUCH BETTER to take proper care of a Cough or Cold from its incipiency, by using promptly Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, than to run any risk of developing a fatal Pulmonary Affection. This well known curative is equally effective in the primary stages of Consumption, Asthma and Bronchitis.

ANTI-CHINESE MEETING.

Resolution Appointing a Committee of Fifteen to Notify the Chinese to "Git up and Git."

The various encampments of the anti-Chinese association of Portland, East Portland and Albina and visiting brethren joined in a procession last evening and with torches, transparencies and music marched through some of the principal streets to the plaza. There were about a thousand in the turnout of which at least one third were boys and hoodlums half grown. Old residents looked in vain for familiar faces in the crowd; there were but few of those who composed it known to any respectable member of the community. Prominent among those on account of his silk hat was Charles H. Hewitt lawyer; Nat Baker the black war horse, and the piratical looking Lawson of Tacoma, rode about midway the procession in a barouche.

The most prominent transparency in the procession was an advertisement for the News. On one side was inscribed, "The News, anti-Chinese, anti-Monopoly," and on the other side a portrait of the editor which from the drooping under lip was evidently taken after his failure to sell his bogus concern to the democracy of the city. There were other transparencies advertising the News, several stating that "The Chinese must go" and "Remember March 4, 1886," and others [illegible] North First street.

The procession halted in front of the News office and cheered lustily. This must have been very flattering to the publishers and would no doubt have proved beneficial if the concern [illegible] wind.

On arriving at the plaza the speakers mounted the stand. The first introduced was M. G. Griffin who lately resigned the presidency of the grand council of the organization and was kicked out of the chairmanship of the [illegible] and is supposed to have strung [illegible] toward the laundry business. He [illegible]. He said "We [illegible] ourselves on showing our determination [illegible] that we the people are for law and order. Of the [illegible] who oppose us [illegible] are making money and renting houses to Chinese." He called on the assemblage to ratify the resolutions adopted by the late congress which were composed of representative men of this state and Washington territory. The assembly ratified. Nat Baker the black war horse was then introduced. He said he had not been feeling well [illegible] and his friends had advised him to go to Oregon City, a quiet place, to take a rest. "But such a circus [illegible] he had seen [illegible] the first night he did not sleep a wink. The [illegible] night he was aroused at 2 o'clock and saw another circus. There were about forty Chinamen making the line for a boat, and they told me they landed at Portland. Many of the people there said it could not be done, and it was not done. Next morning they woke up and what ——. He continued: "The people are the government. Every man has a perfect and undisputed right to do as he did in Oregon City. There we gave them fifty minutes; here we ought to give them thirty minutes, telling them we want you to get up and get out of here or we will move on your works immediately. Since I have returned from Oregon City I [illegible] believe little more in action than in talking."

"I now move you, Mr. President, that a committee of fifteen be appointed to notify the heathen Chinee that this is a cold country for the heathen Chinee and he had best git up and git (applause) and don't you forget it."

Baker then proceeded to appoint the committee as follows: A. N. Hamilton, editor of the News; M. P. Griffin, D. Quimby, M. Lorenbach, W. Q. Thiver, Frank Hedman, P. Boustrot, J. M. Poindexter, Huck Hansen, and Caseys and Kelleys and [illegible] enough to fill the list.

Tacoma Lawson was then introduced. He said he had passed through one campaign of this struggle for liberty. He then branched out in his usual spread eagle style about Washington and Lincoln, but these glorious names awoke no enthusiasm in the audience. He expressed the opinion that Washington's birthday had never before been so gloriously celebrated. He said nothing about going back to Tacoma to take the situation vacated by one of the exodusting Chinamen and it is inferred that they left no vacancy that he is capable of filling.

Then the foxy muzzle of Al White, one of the "heroes of Oregon City," was protruded from the stand and he struck out after the political mossbacks who have been running Clackamas county into debt. He said that forty five guns had been smuggled into Oregon City to preserve the peace but the law and order men had been outgeneraled last night. He was very bitter against [illegible]ham "who said he runs a bank at Oregon City—further comment is useless." Yells from the crowd, "boycott him," caused a visible smile. He paid a tribute to "his friend Nat Baker" and subsided. The meeting then broke up.

THE SEATTLE METHOD.

SEATTLE, Feb 20

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In your edition of the 17th you several times speak of the peaceful Tacoma and Seattle method of expelling the Chinese. It applies to Tacoma but not to Seattle. It makes me smart to have you call it the Seattle method. The Seattle method is to shoot down rioters, as the whole nation knows.

An attempt was made to perpetrate the Tacoma method here. Ask the mob how it succeeded.

The riot here and the arrival of Haskell from San Francisco gave you in Portland a chance to prepare. We had no warning. Seattle being the center of the Puget sound country, surrounded by coal mines and logging camps was the focus to which hordes of roughs came by invitation from the committee, and by daylight Sunday morning, before the townsfolk had left their beds, were busily and "peacefully" pursuing the Tacoma method. At 9 o'clock the fire bell rang for a few minutes while the fireman in charge was held, when the chief of the fire department suddenly appeared and stopped the ringing before there had been time to ring three times two, the signal for the deputy sheriffs. Shortly after the university bell rang the alarm and citizens began to assemble. About noon eighteen men with guns on their shoulders marched into the mob and the riot act was read. Guns meant fight. The number of citizens increased. Before dark patrols were stationed on the streets in the Chinese quarters. All night the patrols kept going. Early Monday morning the Chinese were escorted from the steamer to the court house. About noon all the Chinamen who could not go on the steamer or wished to stay were escorted back to their homes by the Home guards. The mob thought to prevent the return, and shouting and yelling threw itself against the Chinamen, part of whom were a little ahead, and then the guards, who formed a scattering line on each side the Chinamen. The rifles and shotguns of the guards rang out five times, and the mob, howling with rage, retreated, five of their number shot. For nearly an hour the guards faced the mob, standing with fingers on trigger. Thirty men in the front line, and ahead of them about two thousand, howling for someone to "lade" them, but they could get no "lader," and the guards then marched to the court house, and from then until the arrival of the troops, four days, stood guard with but a few hours' sleep in the twenty four. The above is an outline of the Seattle method. I question if you had done as well in Portland had you been taken unawares as we were. Our method and the Tacoma method are as unlike as peace and war. I forgot to mention that our police force were active participants with the mob.

A HOME GUARD.

ON THE TEACHING OF GRAMMAR.

PORTLAND, Feb 20

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

May I add a word to what has already been said on the subject of English grammar?

The modern grammar book used in the education of young children is too often redundant in technicalities and would be better named "Syntax, scientifically treated."

Perhaps the kindergarten system comes nearer than any other to placing within the intellectual reach of children the rudiments of grammar. It does not perplex them with etymology, syntax and prosody, nor press into their little hands the weighty sword of logic before they are strong enough to wield it, but teaches them simply the sounds of words and their meaning, allowing the spelling and derivations to follow when the child's mental powers permit. True it is that grammar and logic are so intimately related that without a knowledge of the first principles of the former it would be impossible to disprove the conclusion in such a palpable fallacy as "Washing is necessary to Portland. The Chinaman is washing, therefore the Chinaman is necessary to Portland." But what does it matter whether a child applies the rules of logic to his conversation? It is time enough to talk of synthesis and analysis when grammar proper has been thoroughly mastered.

The ordinary school book of English grammar seems to draw no line of distinction—or if at all, a faint one—between the explanation of rules absolutely necessary for correct speaking and writing, and the technical description and analysis of sentences. The ordinary work on English grammar is a lengthy treatise on syntax, filled with big words and abstruse definitions, rather than a primer calculated to reach the understanding of beginners.

The mistake of the present day appears to be in driving children swiftly through a vast forest of technical grammar without allowing them to rest by the way and mentally digest the roots which, in later life, are to develop into conversation and composition—careless and vulgar, or correct and elegant, according to the training of their early youth.

One meets a great many young scholars who have learned a great deal of grammar by rote, but are unable to apply it in their conversation; and until our schools teach grammar as an art, to be simply applied, rather than a theory to be scientifically treated, one may expect to meet a great many more.

THE MAPLE BAY MURDER.

Murderous Cowichan Indians who are the Constant Terror of White Settlers.

Victoria Colonist

The following extracts from a letter from a resident of Maple Bay will show the feeling in regard to the murder of Dring and Miller at Cowichan. The inhabitants are greatly excited over the affair, and a feeling of insecurity prevails. It is sincerely hoped that the murderers will be apprehended.

MAPLE BAY, Feb 17, 1886.

I am just back from the funeral of Dring and Miller. Dring was here on Saturday last and left about 4 o'clock for home. He must have called at Miller's on his way home as when Mr. Tilly went down on Sunday morning he found them both dead, each had a soup plate before him and spoon. Miller had fallen from his chair but Dring still sat in his chair rigid and stiff, shot through the head both with bullet and small shot, and his head half severed from his body. Miller was shot through the heart with a bullet (both Indian bullets) and also shot in the abdomen with small shot and his throat was cut. About ten years ago a man was shot in the next cabin to mine about a quarter or half a mile from here. He had missed coming to dine with me, so I went up on the Monday morning to know the reason, when I found him dead, shot through the heart. We afterwards found an Indian bullet in a log of the cabin in a direct line from the door through his body—the same in Miller's case. The ball that passed through his body had come from the direction of the door, gone through the corner of the window, struck the ground thirty feet from the window and lodged in a rail of the fence thirty feet further on. A man named Curtis was murdered some time before that on Salt Spring island and although Mr. Sampson, ex-constable of the island, told the authorities, and tells them yet, that he can produce the murderer, as he has suspected of more than one, yet nothing is done. Mr. Richardson was shot in his cabin in Chemainus, an Indian was suspected but he like the rest is at large, and who can tell if these are their only victims and how many more they will kill. For every Indian that you hear of being hanged you hear of ten white men being shot and hacked to pieces.

LEXINGTON VS HEPPNER.

HARDMAN, Or., Feb 15, 1886.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I notice an article in THE OREGONIAN of February 5 headed "County Seat Question," and signed "R." "R." has tried to picture some of Heppner's natural advantages, stating that it is ten miles nearer to lumber and firewood. He does not say whether it is that much nearer than Portland or Lexington, but I suppose he means Lexington, as that is the aspiring town for the county seat of Morrow county.

Lexington is nine miles nearer the Columbia river and the railroad than Heppner, and consequently a cheaper place to get general merchandise, as both towns have to have their goods freighted from the river on wagons. Cheap goods is what the poor bunch-grassers want. For the benefit of new comers who don't know much about Heppner, I would like to inform them how the citizens of Heppner happened to be so liberal. The county court and most of the county officers were located in Heppner at the time the new county was formed, all by appointment of the governor. About the time the spring fever struck the citizens of Heppner the county court advertised for bids to build a costly court house, and the people outside the town of Heppner objected objectively by holding an indignation meeting, and calling on the different precincts to elect delegates to attend a convention at Lexington in May last. The object of the convention was to ask the county court to desist from using county money to build county buildings until the county seat was permanently located by a vote of the people. The liberality of the citizens of Heppner is dated since the Lexington convention. "R" asserts 95 per cent of the taxpayers are not in favor of changing the location of the county seat. I won't dispute him. But my judgment is that 50 per cent of the taxpayers and 51 per cent of the voters are in favor of Lexington for the county seat. From a chronic office-holder.

LOVELY WOMAN.

N. W. DEE.

What a wonderful thing is woman's love, especially a young woman's. It makes heroes of cowards, model citizens of oat-sowing young men, and Beau Brummels of cowboys. When fortune treats us kindly lovely woman is on hand to make the milliners happy, and when reverses come in our business life she is there to ease the dull blow and to cut down our discarded pantaloons for the son and heir.

How refreshing in sickness' hour is woman's presence. 'Tis she who smooths our heated pillow, who leaves our favorite flowers upon the table, and who places, with a loving hand, and a keen intuition of where it will do the most good, the vigorous and earnest mustard plaster.

Were it not for lovely woman life with many of us would be a mockery. How sweet it is, in days of trouble, when heavy-hearted and weary of the maddening, rushing crowd, to fly to the bosom of our families and find surcease in trundling a baby carriage or starting a fire in the kitchen stove. And what a source of joy to awake from dreams of white-robed angels and find the shares of our toils and troubles making a midnight sortie on our reserve fund.

In point of population woman outnumbers man, but this great truth never soothes the lacerated affections of the youth who fails to win the one bright creature of his choice. When a heartbroken young man emerges from the front parlor with carpet lint clinging to his knees, and a great dry sob toying with his larynx, it is useless to take him kindly by the hand and assure him that statistics are greatly in his favor. At such times we can only stand pityingly aloof and wait for the great healer Time to accomplish that which human sympathy is powerless to achieve. A homeopathic dose of Time rarely fails to perform a cure. In the language of the poet

Fare one, farewell! The word is said
That sends me ever from thy side
Sad is my heart for hope is dead,
And all that's left me now is pride
It's pride will help me, when we meet,
I hide from thee my cruel grief,
The pride that makes me pinch my feet
In shoes at least a size too brief

Here we have evidence of the fickleness of mankind. The rejected lover starts his poem with a touching apostrophe to the false lady of his love and ends the second verse with an allusion to his shoes. One dose of Time, and the patient is half cured.

For many reasons I would not like to be a woman. Think of the terrible strain of waiting and waiting for the right man to come along and say the right word. No wonder that so many of the sex are prematurely aged and care-worn. Yet woman has many advantages over man. For instance

A man can smoke and a man can drink
And poker and billiards play
But he can't comb his hair
On the back of his hair
Because he ain't built that way.

In writing this beautiful tribute to lovely woman I have allowed my impulses to direct my pen. When a pure and holy thought welled up from my heart I made no effort to smother it from a fear of spoiling the sex. No, no; I am proud to say that I simply shut my [illegible] and let her well. Yet I expect no reward. What I have blazoned to the world in behalf of woman I have done from a sense of duty, and would do again.

Spokane Falls Review Joe Young has sold the Daisy mine to Portland capitalists. Joe is a dandy It is hard to shake loose a Portland mossback and get him to trust a little money to chance The only bad feature about it is that the Portlanders have got hold of one of the best claims in the Colville country and their small investment will result in bringing them in a rich return

Seattle Call The miners of the Cedar Mountain Coal company, at McAlister of which Mr J M Colman is manager have notified him that they will quit work to-morrow unless he accedes to their demands for increased wages. Mr Colman has been operating these mines for the past six months at no profit, just to give the miners employment The coal trade is very slack, and prices are way down If the miners will persist in their demands Mr Colman proposes to take the pump out of the mines, and will not resume their operation until next fall Capt. Hayden this afternoon informed a reporter that he would lay up his ship in this port

The Pioneer hotel Lyle's livery stable and Justice Clemens's saloon at Asotin were destroyed by fire last Friday night. The fire originated in the hotel a boy left in charge of the house having carelessly placed a lighted candle in too close proximity to a window curtain When discovered by the citizens the whole inside of the hotel was in a blaze, and the flames spread so rapidly that little of the contents of any of the buildings were saved No insurance was carried, and the loss is total Bailey's law office was torn down to stop the spread of the devouring element.

IDAHO

February 17 Louis Hyant was shot and killed by Chas Simpson, at Murray, Idaho

Simon Hummelyard, imprisoned at Moscow because of insanity committed suicide by cutting his throat last Monday

On the 6th inst. a meeting was held at Murray, Idaho, to discuss the matter of annexing northern Idaho to an adjoining territory Every camp and settlement in the Coeur d'Alene mining region was represented—so said. The meeting adopted a petition to congress asking for annexation to Montana instead of to Washington, on the ground that in Washington petitioners interests would be at the mercy of a legislature in which the mining interests would have absolute control.

FARM NOTES

Some wheat and barley is [illegible] passing through Walla Walla from Pomeroy and way points. But little grain is being shipped from this station A great deal of up freight is arriving for merchants.

HUDSON'S BAY RAILWAY

What the Road is Proposed to Accomplish An Interview with Contractor McLennan

[illegible]

Have [illegible] anything new to [illegible] me about the Hudson's Bay railway [illegible] asked a reporter of Mr R R McLennan of the firm of McLennan & [illegible] who have undertaken to build the Hudson's Bay railway from Lake Winnipeg to Hudson's Bay.

"Nothing very special" replied the good natured agent "only I know that every man in this country is anxious to have the road built."

What do you think of the chances of its being built

I think they are good or I would not be here looking after it and spending time and money over the project.

Do you think the line will pay when built?

It cannot help but pay, and it must be built, as the country cannot do without this railway, as it is the natural outlet for all this great northwestern country as far southeast as St. Paul Winnipeg is 1[illegible] miles nearer Liverpool via Hudson's bay than via New York Regina [illegible] miles nearer than via New York St Paul [illegible] miles nearer via Hudson's bay than via New York so that the traffic run over this road could but be enormous Just take the wheat produced in Manitoba and the Canadian northwest alone Say that there are [illegible] farmers in five years from this date in this country, and they have an average of [illegible] acres under wheat and an average of 25 bushels per acre This would make [illegible] bushels Now suppose that making safe calculation there would be [illegible] bushels surplus. This would take about fifteen trains every working day in the year to export it. Let us say that farmers would get ten cents more per bushel for the surplus wheat than they do at present. In five years from this date [illegible] bushels at ten cents would be $1,000 [illegible] per year In four years sufficient money would be saved by the new outlet to pay for the building of the road from Winnipeg to the Hudson bay, fully equipped and in working order, and a road in every respect equal to the Canadian Pacific railway

What is your opinion of the navigation of the bay and straits

Navigation in the Hudson bay and straits exists for five months in the year I fully believe [illegible] from every information I could pick up for the last ten years from men who have passed the waters here We also know that the bay has been explored by small vessels that were not fit for that purpose When there are large vessels suitable for that trade they can overcome difficulties that appear now to stand in the way and I am fully satisfied there are [illegible] navigation I would not however be at all surprised if parties that had it to their interests would not report too favorably of the practicability of the navigation

[illegible] think the money can be [illegible] to carry out the work

Yes I feel satisfied that the money will be raised and without any trouble either

Why [illegible] you think so

[illegible]

Yes [illegible] great deal [illegible] that the contract is [illegible] signed yet, although in rapid course of preparation and it would compromise me if I were to tell all I know now You see it cost me a great deal to obtain all the knowledge I have of the route and until I am in a safe position to talk I do not think it would be advisable for me to [illegible] so although I am pestered to death with questions [illegible]

How will [illegible] the [illegible] when built, will [illegible] the C P R

I think it will be a benefit to that corporation The traffic in grain, cattle flour, etc coming from Minnesota Dakota and Montana carried over all lines of railway to the St. Paul would find its way over a large portion of the main line of the C P R, and all its branches south of the main line A few years ago some of the wise and unenterprising men and journals of the Dominion that never could see any good in the country, prophesied that the C P R would not do enough business to pay for axle grease and that it would cost the Dominion several millions of dollars a year to run it. Now the road is paying well its stocks are going up, and in a few years it will be the best paying road in the country The Hudson's Bay Railway company with a country like this to back it up can't help but be a paying road

Why Lorillard Retires from the Turf

New York dispatch in the Boston Herald [illegible] Pierre Lorillard whose retirement from the turf has been the talk of the week in sporting circles says that his action was precipitated by the fact that the plans to drive the professional gamblers from the race courses in this neighborhood have failed [illegible] long as horse racing was a recreation for gentlemen I was fond of it, he explained as all that he was willing to say at present for publication "but I can find no pleasure in competing or associating with business gamblers. Lorillard was the chief promoter of the device which last summer was tried at the Coney Island track as a substitution of pool-selling and book making It was simply a scheme to conduct the betting under Jockey club auspices. the wagers being ostensibly subscriptions to purses and the intention was to exclude the gamblers altogether A case was taken into court for a test and the decision was the method was illegal.

Equal Rights Denied

Washington Letter

The colored people of this district are asking congress to pass a law that will secure to them their civil rights Dr Francis, an intelligent colored man was refused ice cream in a store [illegible] Ninth street the other day and there are numerous cases where colored people are regularly discriminated against, particularly at places of amusement Dance rooms are closed to them and many indignities are put upon them As this is a matter over which congress has control, even under the civil rights decision of the supreme court, Senator Ingalls thinks that a bill will be passed at least through the senate But [illegible] [illegible] waiting rooms, bearing respectively these signs [illegible] waiting room [illegible] gentlemen's waiting room "colored waiting room" [illegible] ticket office Such is the case all through the South "A colored person ranks neither as a lady nor as a gentleman" as long as congress, in the lower branch at least, is ruled by men who do not believe in equal rights there is no chance of any bill passing [illegible] Speaking of the colored people of the South brings to mind a characteristic incident at the inauguration of Gov. Lee, [illegible] Among those who appeared at the reception was a colored man from New Jersey and when he shook hands with the governor at them [illegible] laughed and remarked, "You don't think your rights are in danger now do you" That incident was sent over the country as an indication of the new era but what happened [illegible] short time later when he [illegible] the dining room with other guests is not treated It is sufficient to say that he was [illegible]
